Thanks EIP. We have kept the election official updated on the steps you took. We also received confirmation from Facebook (by way of CISA) that Facebook took action on this case.

Thanks for flagging this. Our analysts looked into the claim - the specific post was spread through a personal network but didn't take off further across social media platforms. We flagged the post to Facebook for removal and the link is no longer active which means it has either been taken down or made private to the individual's Facebook. We are monitoring similar narratives in case this kind of message comes up again.
